New Antigonish, N.S. plumbing and HVAC/R branch now open for business

BURLINGTON, ONT. – Today, Kevin Fullan, general manager, Wolseley Canada, plumbing and HVAC/R, Ontario and Atlantic, is pleased to announce the opening of the company's new plumbing and HVAC branch in Antigonish, N.S. The branch is located at 2935 Highway 104, and is a one-stop shop for local contractors to source the products they need.

“When we review opportunities for new branches, we look at how well served a specific market is, and we felt that by building a branch in Antigonish we could provide a valuable service to local contractors,” said Fullan. “The new branch features our full line up of plumbing and HVAC/R products, is bright and modern, and is ready to start serving customers.”

Lance Pitts, the branch manager of Wolseley's New Glasgow, N.S. plumbing and HVAC/R branch, will oversee the operations of the Antigonish branch. Lance began his career with Wolseley 14 years ago managing Wolseley's New Glasgow showroom. And in 2005, Lance became the branch manager and outside sales representative for the New Glasgow branch.

“I'm very excited about the Antigonish branch, and with the support of the best team anyone could ask for, I look forward to much success in that area of Nova Scotia,” said Pitts.

The Antigonish branch is part of a broader initiative to open new Wolseley branches in communities across Canada. Wolseley has recently opened new locations in Lachine and Laval, Que., and Concord, Ont.
